Monday, Nov. 12, at 2, 7 and 8:50
SPECIAL HOLIDAY PROGRAM

George M. Cohan's Musical Comedy Success

"LITTLE JOHNNY JONES"

Starring Johnny Hines and Madge Bellamy

The recent big races between Zev and Papyrus, and between Zev, My Own and In Memoriam look like mere trials when compared with the big Derby Race in this production.

Comedy—"The Blizzard." ASOP'S FABLES.

Matinee, 15c and 25c. Evening, 15c and 35c.

In the evening the Rev. C. G. Miller will give a short talk on "The Significance of Armistice Day."

Tuesday, Nov. 13, at 7 and 8:40

GLADYS WALTON "The Love Letter"

She knew her old sweetheart would kill her new husband so she tried to break a heart to save a life. And then something queer happened.

Comedy—"Spring Fever." International News.

Prices 15c and 25c.

Wednesday, Nov. 14, at 2, 7 and 8:15

Fascinating, Captivating, Bathing

MARY PICKFORD

"Tess of the Storm Country"

By GRACE MILLER WHITE

"The World's Sweetheart" in her new and recently finished production of the famous screen classic the whole world loves. A production so much better than the original as to defy comparison and beggar description.

Comedy—"Cold Chills." Topics of the Day.

Matinee, 15c and 25c. Evening, 15c and 35c.

Thursday, Nov. 15, at 7 and 8:45

MIRIAM COOPER AND RALPH GRAVES

"KINDRED OF THE DUST"

Called by many Peter B. Kyne's greatest book, the photoplay, likewise, is at the top of the pictures adapted from Kyne's works. It is a stirring drama of the logging country. Don't miss it.

Comedy—"The Back Yard." Pathe Review

Prices, 15c and 25c.

Friday, Nov. 16, at 3:45, 7 and 8:45

DUSTIN FARNUM "The Man Who Won"

A melodramatic Western play with action, suspense and characterization that is bound to please. See Farnum's famous comedy to round out a picture of the 100 per cent variety.

Chapter 17 of "The Oregon Trail"

International News.

Evening 15c, 25c.

Saturday, Nov. 17, at 2, 6:45 and 8:30

BRYANT WASHBURN "Mine to Keep"

The former Paramount star returns to the screen in a production that will find favor with his large following. Mabel Forrest and Wheeler Oakman are in the supporting cast. Two child actors, Frances Jackson and Mickey Moore add a touch of comedy that you'll enjoy.

Comedy—"Only A Husband." Starland Review, No. 6.

Matinee 10c and 25c. Evening 15c and 25c.

Novel Uses for Paper.

In the autumn days the housekeeper welcomes every short cut and substitute that will lighten her housekeeping tasks.

"I hate you!" cried Sally West. She picked up the answer book and flung it wildly across the room. It hit the blackboard and splattered messily on the last small, prim school desk.

"It's a judgment," Sally choked, always loaded arithmetic, and now I have to take it!"

No one answered her. Simply because she was addressing the mute green map of Russia and the pointer with the rubber tip and a long row of empty school seats with upright priggish backs.

Sally sat staring stultified before her with a crooked smile on her lips, because she would have liked to cry. She knew she would have to keep on teaching school until she was a very old lady with a few white hairs and an uncertain tooth—and no one to help her.

In sudden desperation she opened her school desk and drew out a meta-morphosed mirror—a mirror at the bottom of a taffeta bag surrounded with pink ribbons and a Miss West on an elusive scent of hellebore that had no place in a proper school desk.

Her hair was still brown, although a large patch showed white from the suicide attached to the roll, so that it was a mixture of brown and white, and her teeth were quite firm and white in the little round mirror.

Sally snuggled the mirror away behind her head and a row of blue pencils as she heard footsteps along the corridor.

"Oh, here you are, Sally West! I've been looking all over for you. You're in the roomer's room, aren't you?"

"Yes, I am," Sally answered. "I'm in the roomer's room, aren't you?"

"Yes, I am," Sally answered. "I'm in the roomer's room, aren't you?"
